

A Study on the Impact of Its Library Services on CINEC Campus Student Academic Work; special reference to maritime students

Indrachapa, W.R.N<sup>1*</sup>

CINEC Campus, Sri Lanka

*nayanachapa15@gmail.com

Abstract

The CINEC Campus was established with the objective of producing qualified students for the shipping industry. The objective of this research is to identify the impact of the services available in the library on the academic activities of the students. The research problem was whether there is any influence from the library services on the students studying on the CINEC Campus for their academic activities. This research is carried out through a case study. I got as a population of this study CINEC Campus maritime students because regularly updated information is essential for maritime students. In addition, most of the services available in the library are used by maritime students (grade I, II, III students), among that have selected 100 maritime students as each class is represented. I used the purposive sampling method to select the sample. For collecting the data, I have used primary sources as primary sources, observation, and questioners. The finding of this study 80% of the students have obtained successful results for their academic work from the many services available in the library, 5% of the students has obtained major results; However, 15% of the students have not obtained successful results for their academic work from the many library services. The main point that emerges from this study is that readers who used the library were more likely to be affected by their academic success than those who did not use the library physically. Here it can be suggested that this problematic situation could be alleviated to some extent if readers who could not use the library were given the opportunity to use library services remotely.

Key words: Library, Library Services, Academic activities, user satisfaction, CINEC Campus